THE MONTHLY NEWSLETTER OF
THE STARK COUNTY LAW LIBRARY

SPECIAL MID-YEAR EDITION

Branch Out This Summer

Stark County's Massillon and Alliance Law Library Locations Offer Attorneys Research Options—and a Change of Scenery

It's the time of year for exploration, and the law library's attorney subscribers are invited to discover the resources and convenience of its library locations across Stark County. Besides the main law library in downtown Canton, two smaller law library extensions are located inside the Massillon and Alliance Municipal Buildings—both open exclusively to attorney subscribers.

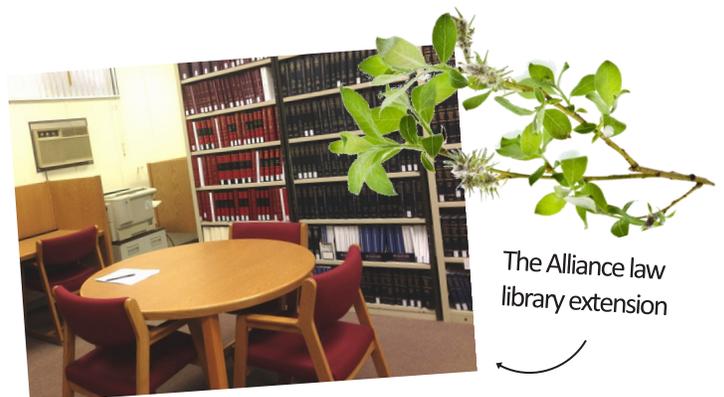

In addition to updated print copies of popular Ohio resources (the Ohio Revised Code, Ohio Jurisprudence, and a number of Ohio treatises), both law library branches offer computer access to many electronic Ohio resources as well, including the revised code, administrative code, Ohio Jurisprudence, all Baldwin's Practice Series titles, and all Baldwin's Ohio Handbooks. RIA Tax Desk and CCH Intelliconnect Human Resources databases are also available on the computers at each location. A copier is available at the Alliance branch for patrons seeking to copy the information they need from the library's physical collection.

Both libraries are open on weekdays from 8:30 am to 4:30 pm. To gain access to the Massillon library extension, patrons can enter through the court office by using the call button on the entrance door. Patrons of the Alliance extension should enter the Municipal Building through the main entrance and request the master key from the police department or Judge Zumbar's office.

The Massillon law library extension

Located in the hallway behind the courtrooms on the second floor of the Massillon Municipal Government Center (at 2 James Duncan Plaza), the library features a private computer for Westlaw research and easy access to many print volumes of Ohio resources.

The Alliance law library extension

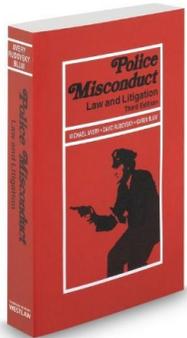

Located inside the Alliance Municipal Building (at 470 East Market Street), the library features ample study/meeting space for small groups, as well as a photocopier and computer access for patrons' convenience.

HOT TOPICS

pulled from the headlines. . .and our shelves!

The year has been full of major legal news stories—from investigations into police misconduct, debate on the legality of same-sex marriage, important decisions regarding net neutrality and data mining practices, and reflections on corporate privacy and trade secrets. Clients may have specific questions about these issues in relation to their cases, and these topics are likely to come up in casual conversation. Luckily the law library has just what attorneys need to stay informed on the finer legal points of these current events. From treatises to CLEs and electronic texts on Loislaw, there's a variety of resources available to choose from:

Police Procedure & Unreasonable Force

Police Misconduct: Law and Litigation (KF4754.5 .H69)

Police Misconduct and Civil Rights: Federal Jury Practice and Instructions (KF1325 .C58 Y34)

How to Handle Unreasonable Force Litigation (KF1307 .Z9 H6)

Gender Identity & LGBT Legislation

Representing Non-Traditional Families and GLBT Clients (CLE 08-136)

Transgender Persons and the Law (KF4754.5 .H69)

LGBT Diversity and Inclusion Conference (CLE 13-136)

Cybersecurity & Net Neutrality

Internet and Technology Law Desk Reference (AVAILABLE ON LOISLAW)

Identity Theft and Data Breach (CLE 09-232)

Internet Law for the Business Lawyer, 2nd ed. (KF390.5 .C6 I569 2012)

Privacy & Trade Secrets

Protecting Trade Secrets Before, During, and After Litigation (KF 3197 .G73)

Counterterrorism Technology and Privacy (JC596.2 .US M15)

Corporate Counsel's Guide to Privacy (KF3455 .C675)

Ohio's County Law Libraries Unite to Provide Online Catalog Search

Need the latest edition of a resource we don't have on our shelves? Or maybe you just wish there was more material available on a particular legal topic? Are you curious about what Ohio's other county law libraries have to offer?

A new online catalog search allows legal researchers to simultaneously browse the collections of over thirty of Ohio's county law libraries. Dubbed the "Union Catalog," a number of county law libraries from north-east and central Ohio have chosen to participate, including Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Muskingum, Portage, Wayne, Mahoning, Geauga, Cuyahoga, and (of course) Stark. With so many legal resources at researchers' fingertips, it's never been easier to find and request materials from other law libraries.

To access the Union Catalog online, follow these simple steps:

1. Visit the Franklin County Law Library homepage at <http://lawlibrary.franklincountyohio.gov/>.
2. Click the LibraryWorld link in the left-hand menu.
3. Click the UNION icon on the left side of the screen.

The Union Catalog homepage on LibraryWorld lists all the participating county law libraries whose holdings information is included in the catalog. Users can search for resources by keyword, title, and author in the search bar provided at the top of the main page, and the number of available resources matching the search terms will appear next to each participating library location. Clicking on the location names provides detailed title information for what's available at each law library.

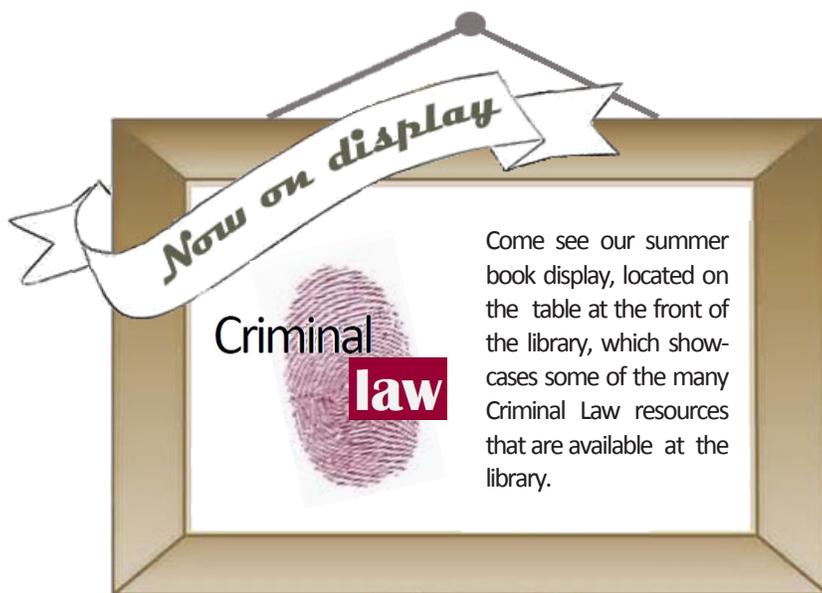

To request a title from another law library, simply e-mail inform@starkcountyohio.gov or call us at 330-451-7380, and we'll notify you when it's available to pick up.

Library
World®

Download the catalog app from the iTunes or Google Play stores for easy access on the go!

The LibraryWorld app allows users to separately search the catalogs of most county law libraries that are Union Catalog participants. For instance, to search the Franklin County Law Library catalog in the app, simply open the Info window and type "Franklin County" in the library name box. (There's also a password box, but this should remain empty.) Then open the search window and start browsing for titles! The Stark County Law Library catalog isn't yet completely up to date on LibraryWorld, so users should continue to access the SCLL catalog on our website: <http://www.catalog.starklawlibrary.org/uhtbin/cgiisirs.exe/x/x/0/49/>.

Library How-To: understanding microfilm resources

The law library will soon be replacing its old microfilm machines with a new digital microfilm/microfiche reader. This handy guide will help you begin utilizing this new research tool as soon as it arrives.

Why Is Microfilm Still Relevant? To some, microfilm technology falls into the same category as typewriters and record players: virtually obsolete. But while the technology isn't state-of-the-art, it's an archival system that has withstood the test of time—literally. In fact, when properly stored, microfilm and microfiche records can last up to 500 years! Plus, it requires only a fraction of the storage space compared to housing printed volumes of the same information. And a number of older legal records simply aren't available in any other format—even if storage space wasn't an issue.

What Microfilm Resources Are Available? The law library's microfilm/fiche collection includes a mix of state and federal resources, reporters, and periodicals. Some highlights include:

- Ohio General Assembly Fiscal Notes, Testimonies, and Bills (1888-1992)
- Ohio Legislative Service Commission Bill Analyses (spanning the 104th-123rd General Assemblies)
- 5th District Appeals Court Decisions (1974-1992)

How Do I Find Microfilm Resources? Labels on the metal cabinets and drawers near the periodical archives at the back of the library indicate where each microfilm/fiche collection is located. The individual fiche cards and film rolls within each collection are labeled with their specific contents and are organized chronologically.

5 Practical Shortcuts to More Efficient Research

Your research time is precious, and these quick tips can help optimize your efforts across a variety of research platforms:

USE BOOLEAN OPERATORS

Particularly useful for research databases like Westlaw and Lexis that can generate hundreds of pages of search results, Boolean Operators are proximity connectors and connector words that can, when used in the right combination, make the average keyword search more precise. The American Association of Law Libraries provides a handy flowchart on their website detailing when and how to use Boolean Operators within Westlaw and Lexis: <http://www.aallnet.org/sections/rips/pdfs/17th-Legal-Research-Teach-In-gotschallwestlawsearchlogicintroductorytipsheet.pdf>

TRY KEYBOARD COMMANDS

Using keyboard commands while researching online can drastically speed up mundane processes like copying and pasting text, opening and closing search windows, scrolling through pages, and searching for keywords inside Web content. PC Magazine provides insights on 7 essential keyboard commands for researchers, with a link to 25 more general commands at the end of the article:

<http://www.pcmag.com/rcticle2/0,2817,2420115,00.asp>

PRINT/ SEND THE ESSENTIALS

Few things seem more time consuming than shuffling through a pile of Westlaw information just to discard the unnecessary pages. Or slogging through a huge Westlaw PDF to find the one paragraph you needed. Luckily Westlaw now gives users the option to deliver/print specific star pagination ranges within large documents. The Cleveland-Marshall College of Law Library provides an overview: <http://cmlawlibraryblog.classcaster.net/2015/05/19/westlaw-printing-enhancements-dropbox-and-star-pagination/>

SEARCH SUBJECT HEADINGS

According to the Law Library of Congress, users often default to a keyword search when browsing a library catalog, not realizing that they may be inadvertently handicapping their research efforts. The LLC recommends using subject headings for library catalog searches instead: <http://blogs.loc.gov/law/2015/05/how-to-use-subject-headings-to-browse-the-library-of-congress-online-catalog/>

SEEK HELP SOONER THAN LATER

The law library staff is always happy to help and specializes in overcoming research ruts!

Calling all contributors!

Want to see your byline in Legally Speaking? We're looking for engaging content written by attorneys, for attorneys:

- analysis of recent legal cases, proposed legislation, or rule changes
- practice advice (i.e., marketing tips, legal tech, etc.)
- book, website, law journal, or event reviews
- announcements about career or firm achievements
- op-eds on legal trends
- photographs of law-related activities are also welcome!
